- Due to the weaknesses in repairing the aged machinery and ships, it affects the State-owned transport sector and so it needs to conduct repair works on them based on their terms or years correctly.

- It should use the delta region and rivers such as Ayeyawady, Chindwin and Thanlwin effectively in the inland water transport sector.
- It should build modern ships and shipbuilding can be studied at the partnership yards.
- If the people prefer inland water transport with a sense of trust, the nationwide travel and flows of trade can be improved and there will be an economic system that can be launched across the nation.

Myanmar Strongly Rejects Unilateral Decisions and Conclusions Adopted during the 110th Session of the International Labour Conference

Ministry of Labour released a statement describing that Myanmar strongly protests and rejects the decisions and conclusions against Myanmar that were adopted respectively by the 345th Session of the ILO Governing Body and the Committee on Application of Standards during the 110th Session of the International Labour Conference

(110th ILC) which was held in Geneva, Switzerland from 27 May to 11 June 2022 without the participation of Myanmar. Myanmar further reiterates its objection against the establishment of the Commission of Inquiry in the absence of the country concerned goes against the ILO Constitution.

Statement

1. It is observed that the decisions and conclusions against Myanmar were adopted respectively by the 345th Session of the ILO Governing Body and the Committee on Application of Standards during the 110th Session of the International Labour Conference (110th ILC), which was held in Geneva, Switzerland from 27 May to 11 June 2022 without the participation of Myanmar.
2. These decisions and conclusions were derived from the Report of the ILO Director-General on Development in Myanmar and the 2022 Report of the Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions and Recommendations. In this regard, Myanmar has already conveyed its observations to the respective bodies of the ILO. The reports contained excessive politically motivated elements rather than labour-related matters and they are not credible. The elements contained in the reports have heavily relied on distorted information and fabricated news, which are deliberately disseminated by the so-called labour activists. Accordingly, it is not surprising to see that the decisions and conclusions are largely politicized.
3. It is also observed that the ILO ignores the essence of the tripartite mechanism in implementing the Decent Work Country Program and in providing technical assistance without engaging the government. The ILO neglects the internationally-accepted principle of providing assistance at the request of the country concerned. The Government of Myanmar has been implementing activities to assist the workers and employers with tripartite nature.
4. The decisions also mentioned the Commission of Inquiry which was established in March 2022 and questioned Myanmar's compliance with the Freedom of Association and Protection of the Right to Organize Convention, 1948 (No 87) and the Forced Labour Convention, 1930 (No 29). In reality, there are 2,892 Basic Labour Organizations; 162 Township Labour Organizations; 26 Region and State Labour Organizations; nine Labour Federations; one Labour Confederation in Myanmar with 190,000 members of such labour organizations. It is not true and appropriate to generalize that Myanmar is not upholding its obligations under Convention No 87 because of taking legal actions against a handful number of so-called labour activists for inciting the general public to commit violence and unrest.

5. In Myanmar, the National Complaint Mechanism on Eliminating Forced Labour of Myanmar (NCM) was established in 2020. The report of the ILO Director-General mentioned that since February 2021, the ILO received 13 individual complaints that are subject to further assessment while no cases have yet been submitted to the NCM. It is incomprehensible to learn that the ILO Liaison Office takes one and half years to submit the cases to the NCM. Furthermore, the allegations regarding the use of forced labour were made without verifiable information such as names of individuals, location and date of incidents.

6. For these reasons, Myanmar strongly protests and rejects the decisions and conclusions adopted at the 345th Session of the ILO Governing Body and the Committee on Application of Standards. Myanmar further reiterates its objection against the establishment of the Commission of Inquiry in the absence of the country concerned goes against the ILO Constitution.
